CHRONIC STOMACH TROUBLE CURED

There is nothing more discouraging than a chronic disorder of the stomach. It is not surprising that many suffer for years with such an ailment when a permanent cure is within their reach and may be had for a trifle. "About one year ago," says P. H. Beck, of Wakarusa, Mich., "I bought a package of Chamberlain's Tablets, and since using them I have felt perfectly well. I had previously used any number of different medicines, but none of them were of any lasting benefit." For sale by all dealers.

Meeting of Town Council

The regular meeting of the Blairmore town council was held on Monday night, all the members except Councillor Rose being present.

After the reading and approval of the minutes of the previous meeting, a number of communications were read, including:

A letter from Bentley C. Simmons, of Maseod, applying for the position of chief of police. This application was ordered filed.

M. W. Guthrie, of Cowansville, Quebec, on behalf of his company of three, asked the town for information regarding the location of a machine shop. They had all the machinery necessary to equip a shop, and would open a foundry if conditions warranted.

The mayor informed the council that a reply had been forwarded to Messrs. Guthrie & Co., strongly recommending Blairmore as a location.

The Sheet Metal Co., offering the town trial of a chemical engine for fire fighting purposes and terms for purchase, etc.

A. E. Humphries, of the Lethbridge branch of the Department of Interior, acknowledging receipt of Mayor Lyon's letter in reference to Emil Vergin, which had been forwarded to his department from Calgary, stating that this case came under the jurisdiction of Lethbridge and asking that a form attached be filled out, giving the name of wife and other information. If case came within the Act, they would make immediate arrangements. In the meantime, if people have been residents of Blairmore for a year or more, the municipality would have to provide for them until such time as papers are got through.

Mr. Humphries' letter had already been replied to, to the effect that papers would be forwarded in a day or two, also informing the department that three applications of a similar nature had been received, and that it may be necessary to make a trip to Blairmore to make enquiries.

The council was informed that in this connection the inspector had come to Blairmore during the week, and found the men employed and no necessity for further steps being taken in the matter.

The West Canadian Collieries Ltd., complained that a pile of nuisance had been created about one thousand feet or less west of the railway station. They claimed that the nuisance was first placed there by the town and that private parties have since been using the same ground by reason of this fact, and asked that the town take steps to have same removed.

Secretary was instructed to notify the West Canadian Collieries that the matter would receive attention.

Professor Diestro, bandmaster, wrote asking that the town pay rent for a room being used by the band for practice purposes, at $3.00 per month, and stating that the arrears now amounted to four months.

Secretary was instructed to notify Mr. Diestro that the rent for the room where band practices would be paid by the town if presented.

The following accounts were read and passed:

W. A. Beebe, for rent $20.00.

Post office, for box rent $6.00.
James Burrows, for services as fire chief 1913, $100.00.
William McMaster, for labor $5.50.

P. Burns & Co., 75c.

The account of D. A. Sinclair for hire of Budd's hall for ratemakers' meeting in November last, for $12.50, came up for consideration. At a meeting of the council held on November 10th, 1913 a motion was put through to the following effect:

"That the room in the Budd building, Lot 8, Block 6, be secured for ratemakers' meeting, and that cost of same shall not exceed $25.00."

Mayor Lyon stated that the original motion had been amended, as was shown by the minutes of that meeting, and the figures changed to read $5.00 instead of $25.00.

The original motion was produced by the secretary, showing the figure "2" scratched off with ink. Councillors Sinclair and Beebe stated that they understood that the original motion passed to read $25.00.

On motion by Beebe Hinds, the account was ordered paid.

Councillor Hinds gave notice that at the next regular meeting of the council he would introduce a by-law to amend the license By-Law No. 4.

Councillor Dutil gave notice that at next regular meeting of the council he would introduce a by-law for the purpose of controlling and defining the duties of the fire department.

The park subject came up for a little consideration, but as the council had no material or information at hand to work on, the matter was allowed to lay over till next meeting.

The council very strongly recommended that the town be allowed to believe that a park for Blairmore will very soon become a reality.
The council adjourned at 10 o'clock.

Death of Alan Moore

Word was received in Frank on Tuesday of the death of Alan Moore, which occurred at Calgary. Mr. Moore was at one time company agent of the Frank Lime Company, and was favorably known and highly respected by all with whom he became acquainted. But recently he married a young lady of Winnipeg, and had since been a resident of Calgary, where his wife survives him.

The funeral service was held on Tuesday afternoon at Knox Presbyterian church, Calgary, which was largely attended. Touching discourses were delivered by Revs. J. A. Clark and A. D. Archibald, both referring to the interest Mr. Moore had always exercised in the life of the church and in the welfare of young men, and of the great influence his character exerted on those amongst whom he labored.

The remains have been sent to the deceased's former home in Georgetown, Ontario, accompanied by Mrs. Moore and deceased's brother, Dr. William Moore, of Chicago.

Chartered Accountants Affiliate with University

The members of the Alberta Institute of Chartered Accountants have decided to affiliate their organization with the University of Alberta. By an agreement with the University dated from Jan. 1st, 1914, the latter undertakes to conduct the examinations for Chartered Accountants in the province and to provide courses in accounting as soon as it is practicable to do so.

The Blairmore Train Schedule

Under the new time table to be issued by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, the arrival of trains at Blairmore will be as follows:

No. 515, Regular West Bound Passenger, 8.35.
No. 514, Regular East Bound Passenger, 21.03.
No. 63, Calgary-Spokane Express, 22.30.
No. 64, Spokane-Alberta Express, 8.35.
This schedule will likely come into effect next week.

Death of Samuel Stokes

The death occurred at Coleman, on Wednesday afternoon of this week, of Samuel Stokes, brother of Fred Stokes, janitor of the Coleman public school. Mr. Stokes has been practically an invalid since May last, when he received injuries in McGillivray mine which necessitated the amputation of one of his legs. He had been an inmate of the hospital for some time past, and but a few days prior to his demise his doctors announced that they entertained no hope for his recovery.

Deceased leaves a wife and three children to mourn the loss of a loving husband and father.

Funeral took place at Coleman yesterday afternoon and was very largely attended. Rev. W. T. Young, of Frank, officiated.

Frank Happenings

Mr. Scott, mine inspector, came to town on Wednesday night.

Frank, came to town for a brief visit on Wednesday.

Mrs. James Tulayson and family returned from the Old Country on Tuesday morning.

J. R. MacDonald removed his furniture to Frank this week, and is now a permanent resident.

Mrs. Douglas Wilson and Mrs. F. Irwin, of Blairmore, were Frank visitors on Wednesday afternoon.

All the late employees at the Frank coal company are to receive their back wages on Saturday, March 14th.

A grand smoker will be held on Saturday night in the miners' hall to celebrate the re-opening of the Frank mine.

Rinaldo Pozzi, fireman at the local power plant, was sitting for examination at Blairmore on Tuesday. We wish him every success.

Gordon Gleave, who recently arrived from a several months' visit to England, has returned thence again, taking with him Norman, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jolly.

Jack Keefer, late of Frank but now of Blairmore, will return to Frank this week and occupy the house adjoining the hospital, formerly occupied by Dr. Mackay.

A masquerade ball was held in the old miners' hall on Monday night last by the Bohemian element. Judging by the after appearance of some of those who attended an enjoyable time was spent.

Mrs. T. Davis arrived back from the Old Country on Friday evening, accompanied by her husband who had journeyed to Medicine Hat to meet her. The usual cheerful reception was given her on arrival. They will reside at Evan Morgan's for the present.

The regular meeting of the social league was held on Friday evening last. A lecture was delivered on "Japan," illustrated by lantern slides, by Mr. Whyte, of Pincher Creek. Several Frank girls, who attended the summer school at Pincher Creek last year, appeared on the screen.

Joe Uyanit, who has taught draws with Dick Marshall, is now established in Cranbrook, where he is running the Kootenay Grill and dishing out spaghetti.

A hockey match between Blairmore and Bellevue teams took place on the local roller rink on Wednesday night and proved a great drawing card. The game resulted in a tie, 4 to 3. The game afforded considerable amusement, not only for the players, but for the spectators.

A grand benefit concert takes place at Bellevue tonight, under the auspices of the Bellevue hockey club. A splendid programme of local talent will be rendered, to be interspersed by moving pictures. We understand that the manager of the Lyric Theatre, Mr. Johnston, has very kindly offered the free use of his hall and films for the occasion, and that the public in general have come out ably to support the hockey club. Such a spirit is highly commendable and should be experienced by every town which entertains and appreciates any line of real sport.

Victoria Reliance Lodge and Coleman I.O.O.F., will hold their sixth annual ball at Coleman tonight, to which all Oddfellows and Reliance are cordially invited.

A mock parliament will be held at the Frank Methodist church tonight, which promises to be very interesting. One of the matters to be discussed will be the placing of a limit of speed on the local doctor's conveyance.

Joe MacDougall is now throwing his melodies over the Cosmopolitan hotel bar. He states that it will take about two weeks to completely recover from the effects of the lost glass.

The Blairmore Hockey Club will hold their fourth annual ball at the opera house on St. Patrick's night. The affair should be well patronized, as the hockey club deserves all the support and encouragement it is possible to give them.

A row ensued among a number of Italians on Tuesday night of last week, in which knives and other weapons were brought into use. It is not known yet what steps will be taken, but it is expected the treacherous individuals will be brought to justice.

The residents of the red-light district appeared before Inspector Junget at the instance of Corporal Meade and Constable Hancock on Monday morning, and were fined sums ranging from $10 to $40 and costs each for selling liquor without a license, and being occupants of disorderly houses.

When John MacDougall appeared before Magistrate Massie at Edmonton he asked that something be done to make him stop drinking.

Leaving over the stilling he implored the magistrate to arrange matters so he could not buy any more liquor and was consequently interdicted for two years. The charge against MacDougall was for drinking so much liquor that it injured his health and lessened his estate.

A grand entertainment is announced for Friday, March 20th, at the local opera house, under the auspices of the Blairmore hockey club, the leading feature of which will be the famous singing contest between Messrs. Dawson, MacDougall and Harris. It is expected that in addition to the singing contest, a boxing bout between two well known ring artists will take place. Altogether the promoters promise the best time ever in Blairmore.

A grand benefit concert takes place at Bellevue tonight, under the auspices of the Bellevue hockey club. A splendid programme of local talent will be rendered, to be interspersed by moving pictures. We understand that the manager of the Lyric Theatre, Mr. Johnston, has very kindly offered the free use of his hall and films for the occasion, and that the public in general have come out ably to support the hockey club. Such a spirit is highly commendable and should be experienced by every town which entertains and appreciates any line of real sport.

Messrs. Archibald McLeod, William Anson Beebe, Henry Matheson, Raoul Green, Donald Alexander Sinclair, Emile Trono and Peter Patterson, Blairmore; James William Ashdown, Walter J. Fisher, William J. McGowan, Evans Morgan, Frank Arthur Wellesley Hawes, Norman M. Morrison, Beaver Mines; John Thomas Griffiths, Lethbridge; John Norman Rowell, Bellevue; John Taylor, Hillcrest; Joseph Cyrus Chester, Borzakis; and Oliver Johnstone, Lundbreck, are among the recent appointments as commissioners for taking affidavits.

A number of lumber jacks were allowed space in the cooler of Monday afternoon. Some of them were released on payment of a character fee, for having overimbibed of intoxicating liquors. Three others were retained to appear before Inspector Junget the following morning. One of the men who appeared before the "cadi" was sent down to Macleod for sixty days; another had to dig up about sixteen dollars. The offences were committed while under the influence of liquor, but apart from this both men are gentlemen and worthy of being respected as hard-working, honest men, and that they should become victim to that they should unfortunately come into the clutches of the law is surely to be regretted.

A very interesting temperance lecture was delivered at the Central Baptist church on Wednesday night by Rev. F. Cuthbert Atkin, of Lethbridge, grand organizer of the Independent Order of Good Templars. In the course of his remarks the speaker quoted the alarming fact that "at a recent election in a town not many thousands and miles from Blairmore out of 497 women who voted 492 were in favor of the segregated area." The subject of Mr. Atkin's address was "Good Citizenship" and many of the ideas set forward by him were forcible. He referred at length to the many evils existing for the degrading of humanity and urged that a strong fight be made to combat the opposing elements.

The masquerade carnival held in the roller rink on Monday night was another very enjoyable affair and reflected great credit on the management of the opera house. Besides about eighty masked skaters, the house was well packed with spectators, all of whom found an abundance of fun watching the various pranks of the qualified artists and the curious failings of the amateurs. The Blairmore orchestra furnished good music, and there was a roar of fun from start to finish. After the judges had made their choice, the following prizes were awarded:

Second Lady's Prize—Mrs. Stange, a set of Cut Glass.

Most of the dresses were so tasty and original that it was certainly difficult to decide between them.

An enjoyable dance, which was kept up until the wee hours of morning, made a fitting climax.

An individual named Cleveland sought and got a meal, a bed and liquid refreshment at a hotel at Fernie last week. He hadn't the price to make good, so will get cheaper board for thirty days. This is the sort of goods should be handed out to teach some people how to reduce the high cost of living.

Apply This To The Blairmore Council

Rome, March 10.—Members of the Italian parliament have been invited by the Aulax Sporting club to attend a course of boxing and jiu jitsu lessons especially organized for their benefit. In the invitation, the management points out that in view of the recurring tumultuous scenes in the house members should perfect themselves in the art of self-defence. "We consider we are fulfilling a patriotic duty," the management concludes.

Married Wrong Brides

Rev. Alfred Wicks, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Rancoul, 14, is near sighted. Last week he officiated at the double wedding of Miss Florence M. Sandoz to Charles L. Remert and Miss Mable Sandoz to J. Oscar Tumburn. Both the sisters are young and pretty. The couples were attendants to each other. The brides names being the same, the minister got twisted and married the wrong couple. Then he started all over again and got it straight. Taberna, who was accidentally married to each of the girls, tried to kiss his sister-in-law and was knocked down.

Yes, I had a brother in Boston once, said a Chicago lady to a Bostonian. He was in some great musical society there, but I forget his name.

Well, I guess so, Handel and Haydn were Boston men, weren't they?

At a certain Scottish mansion, notorious for scant fare, a gentleman was inquiring of the gardener about a dog which some time before he had given the laird. The gardener showed him a tank reynoldson, upon which the gentleman said:

No, no! The dog I gave your master was a mastiff, not a greyhound.

Taking Him Down

To a certain Southern town, on legal business came a most pompous young lawyer, who notwithstanding his name was McNaught.

He found it necessary to take with him a good opinion of himself, who had no good opinion of anything, and especially of anyone who had a good opinion of himself.

The squire had never heard of his visitor till he called and he was a poor hand at remembering names, but he was an expert in human measure.

The young lawyer proceeded promptly to say what he had to say, and the squire listening, but watching. Presently he thought it was time for him to say something.

Excuse me, excuse me, the lawyer stammered. The squire, and finished his remarks.

It was not long before the squire again followed upon to speak.

Well, now, Mr. McNaught, he started in.

I said my name was McNaught, the lawyer interrupted sharply.

Fun in Engine Room

As a rule engineers are anything but a frivolous class of men; but occasionally one comes across a joker.

Recently a solemn-looking individual stroled into the engine-room and asked Mr. Guppy, the light-hearted second, to give him a little information about his engines.

Why certainly, said Guppy. Those two brass knobs over there are called the jeremiadles, and that thing like a distorted mangle is the freezer.

The jeremiadles—so-called because of its resemblance to a boiled owl—is really generating electricity flavored with red currants, you understand.

Well, when we stir up the conflicting elements with a brass poker and an old clay pipe, the jeremiadles is connected with the freezer and owing to the ammonia extracted from the pipe mixing with the electricity, it freezes the freezer so cold that we have to use a six foot thermometer to find the temperature.

My word, said his questioner, that's wonderful. And he walked away.

Hear me kidding the old chap? said Mr. Guppy with a wink to the engineer who had been standing by. He's as green as a new cheese.

Yes, I have often thought so, said the chief quietly, but he's the inspecting engineer for the company all the same.

Mr. X—, a lawyer, was much addicted to the habit of tearing his clerks and the office boys coming in for an unusual share of admonition whenever occasion called for it, and some time when I did not. That his words were appreciated was made quite evident to Mr. X— one day when a conversation between him and another office boy on the same floor was repeated to him.

Whatever wages? asked the other boy.

I get $10,000 a year, said Mr. X—.

I don't think I calculated that other boy, derisively.

Honorable, he said Tommy: $5 a week in cash and the rest in legal advice!

The Mother Tongue

Does Miss De Gabb resemble her mother?

Not so much at first sight; but when she begins to talk, there's a speaking likeness.

A Business Man

What does your father do for a living? asked one little girl.

Why, replied the other, he takes up the collection in church.

First barber—What was the best job you ever did?

Second barber—I once shaved a man, then I persuaded him to have a haircut, and shaved him.

Third barber—What was the best job you ever did?

Miss Passy—How very interesting! I'll try.

Crushlight—Thanks, awfully! It's that on over there in pink. She speaks nothing but French.

Are They?

She—Are they happy together? He—Well, he stays in ever, evening. She—Then they must be. He—But she goes on.

The Shipper

Behold, the thrifty shopper comes. For summer she wears a dress and all day she views silk, socks and shoes.

And spends two bits—no more!

Sybil—So mad! But cut me on the street last night.

Byrl—Never mind. He was probably edged.

True Heroism

Everyone in the hotel smoking room with one exception, had been holding forth his own opinion of the bravery and presence of mind. Everybody, with the same exception had recounted at length the feats of the hero.

He was a good specimen of himself. The squire had never heard of his visitor till he called and he was a poor hand at remembering names, but he was an expert in human measure.

The young lawyer proceeded promptly to say what he had to say, and the squire listening, but watching. Presently he thought it was time for him to say something.

Excuse me, excuse me, the lawyer stammered. The squire, and finished his remarks.

It was not long before the squire again followed upon to speak.

Well, now, Mr. McNaught, he started in.

I said my name was McNaught, the lawyer interrupted sharply.

Fun in Engine Room

As a rule engineers are anything but a frivolous class of men; but occasionally one comes across a joker.

Recently a solemn-looking individual stroled into the engine-room and asked Mr. Guppy, the light-hearted second, to give him a little information about his engines.

Why certainly, said Guppy. Those two brass knobs over there are called the jeremiadles, and that thing like a distorted mangle is the freezer.

The jeremiadles—so-called because of its resemblance to a boiled owl—is really generating electricity flavored with red currants, you understand.

Well, when we stir up the conflicting elements with a brass poker and an old clay pipe, the jeremiadles is connected with the freezer and owing to the ammonia extracted from the pipe mixing with the electricity, it freezes the freezer so cold that we have to use a six foot thermometer to find the temperature.

My word, said his questioner, that's wonderful. And he walked away.

Hear me kidding the old chap? said Mr. Guppy with a wink to the engineer who had been standing by. He's as green as a new cheese.

Yes, I have often thought so, said the chief quietly, but he's the inspecting engineer for the company all the same.

A Plan for Safeguarding Miners

The following interesting device is referred to by George W. Bowle, of Detroit, Michigan, in correspondence to the "Scientific American" of a recent date: "Concerning the number of lives yearly expected in coal mining from explosions, black-damp, roof falls, flooding of passageways in mines, and for which no adequate means has yet been devised to counteract by allowing miners an opportunity to escape, the problem leads me to submit for your consideration a plan by which in nearly all cases of mine disaster the loss of life could be averted. The plan, as any practical man can see, would entail on mining companies a large additional expense, but for humanity's sake mining companies have been compelled by legislation to adopt equipment for the safeguarding and welfare of mine workers.

The idea is as follows:

The wall of one side of the main passage should be made of or lined with a sheet of metal or of a tube twenty-four inches in diameter by one quarter of an inch thick, riveted and caulked watertight. This emergency tube to extend throughout the main passages of the mine, this tube to have watertight doors placed every hundred feet apart, and where there is a vertical shaft, grab irons or steps be riveted on inside of vertical portion of tube to top of mine shaft.

In the event of a "cave-in" or the roof collapsing, cutting miners off from the outside world, and bringing them face to face with death from starvation or thirst, the miners would enter the tube through manhole nearest to them and get through or past the "cave-in" or fall, and return to daylight, home and life without having head-reading accounts published of men buried alive. In fact, operations could be carried on the same as usual while the "cave-in" was being removed.

In the event of a mine explosion, provided there was no fire vomiting from mouth of mine, the miner could escape the danger from "black-damp," or the deadly gas which follows a mine explosion. Of course, these manholes and doors should be closed from the inside as soon as the last man has entered. The fan blast system in use in mines could be arranged so as to force plethoric emergency tube constantly with fresh air. This emergency tube could extend to top of both the down and up shafts, allowing escape from a mine either way.

In the event of a mine getting flooded with this means of escape, at least no lives would be lost for men with nerve enough to work in a mine, would possess sufficient nerve to take advantage of this means of escape to save their own lives by entering the tube which would lead them to the world above, their families and complete safety.

I hope for humanity's sake this idea will be made use of. I do not know of any channel more suited to exploit this suggestion than the columns of the Scientific American, which reaches men engaged in the great work of making our industries safer and more attractive to the worker.

The initial cost of such an emergency tube should not be so very prohibitive as the cost of hoisting engines, pumps, fans, or any other kind of equipment necessary for the mining of coal. I feel assured that such an appliance would decrease by a large percentage the number of lives annually lost, and checked, as imprisoned, overgrown by black-damp, or drowned by not having a means of escape."

Canada May Prohibit Cigarettes in All Shape and Form

Ottawa, March 9.—At a late hour Mr. Andrew Broder's resolution to abolish the manufacture, sale and importation of cigarettes was introduced and debated in the house of commons. Mr. Broder speaking in support of his motion said that the existing laws were not effective. The increase in the use of cigarettes in Canada and other countries and the evil resulting therefrom were appalling. Fifty years ago three Cuban students sitting in an American university had brought the first cigarettes to the United States. During the three months ending December 31, no less than eight billion cigarettes were consumed in that country.

After dealing with the report of the royal commission named by the British government in 1894 to investigate this question, Mr. Broder stated that Japan had passed a law forbidding youths under 20 years of age to smoke. A reason given by the Japanese for this legislation was that it was not desirable to have the youth of that country descend to the level of the people of China, India and America. Provision was made in the bill for the punishment, not only of the smoker, but of the parents, guardians and vendors.

It would be urged that the people of Canada would never consent to having their personal liberty interfered with in this way. They should, however, be prepared to make some sacrifice in the interest of the physical well-being of the youth of the land. It was the duty of parliament to take a sensible view of the matter and pass the law which he proposed.

A committee of 15 members to investigate the evil and report on the question of further legislation, was announced by Premier Borden in the course of his reply. He accompanied his announcement by a motion which would provide for the machinery for putting it into effect.

The premier frankly doubted the advisability of placing such drastic legislation as Mr. Broder proposed on the statute books. He pointed out that at the present time there was very strict legislation prohibiting the sale and use of cigarettes by all under 16 years. He had asked the member of Dundas as well as several deputations why, in view of this, further legislation was needed and the only answer he had received was that the law was not enforced. If the statute was incapable of enforcement, the premier said he would like to have it explained how it was expected that a statute such as that which Mr. Broder proposed would be made effective. If public opinion was so lax that the present law was of no avail, it seemed to him poor logic to ask for a still more drastic act.

The premier thought that family influences were more effective than any legislation. There seemed to be more and more a tendency to place matters of family concern under legislation, but legislation would never take the place of home influences.

Mr. Thornton (Dundas) supported Mr. Broder's resolution and made lengthy quotations to show the evils of cigarette smoking.

Hon. Frank Oliver said that he hesitated to express an opinion on the subject since he himself did not use tobacco in any form.

Somebody in sympathy with public safety is resorting to the very unpopular method of poisoning dogs. That we have too many canines in Bellevue is known by everyone who encounters a half dozen yelping brutes at once on a dark night. Citizens should be considerate of those who continually encounter this very unpleasant experience and keep their dogs chained. To lose a valuable dog through poisoning is not very pleasant, and it is a case where the innocent suffers for the guilty. We hope some better measure than poisoning may be found, and in this every citizen should co-operate.

We congratulate the Amateur Dramatic Society, of Hillcrest, on the splendid concert provided their patrons on Monday evening, which was enjoyed by many Bellevue people. The part taken by the "Geisha" girls was a credit to those who took part, and the singing of the "Song of Mars" showed a rare aggregation of male talent. More of this kind of work would stimulate a better feeling among the citizens of the Pass towns, who would like to see a higher development of much latent talent which is dormant because of lack of energy and of interest. We hope the Hillcrest organization will stick together so as to provide many more such entertainments as that of Monday night.
